

COLLEEN MOOREHEAD

Corporate Leadership

A true champion for women, Colleen Moorehead is a business leader, trailblazer and mobilizer. Today she is Chief Client Officer at business law firm Osler, Hoskin & Harcourt. Her efforts to support, mentor and advance women throughout her 30-year career have contributed to meaningful organizational changes for Canadian companies and women in business.

Colleen is unwavering in her commitment to supporting women in business and creating opportunities to tell their stories. She is the co-founder and business director of the Judy Project named after the late Microsoft Canada executive Judy Elder at the University of Toronto's Joseph L. Rotman School of Management. This initiative is a leadership forum designed to empower and prepare women to take on executive leadership positions. The Judy Project has supported more than 400 women ascend into C-suite positions since its launch in 2003. The network of alumnae is a group of empowered women from Canadian CEOs to Board Members across the country.

During Colleen's time at CIBC Wood Gundy Private Client Group where her career began, and in previous roles including co-founder and President of E*TRADE Canada, Colleen championed women and diversity in each workplace. She understands that when talented women take on challenging and visible leadership assignments, it drives great outcomes.

Colleen also recently edited the best-selling leadership book, Collective Wisdom of High-Performing Women, Leadership Lessons from the Judy Project. This book features personal stories from 70 Canadian women business leaders, highlighting their perspectives on the characteristics of great leaders.

A committed volunteer, Colleen remains engaged in the broader community. She is a past Director of Women's College Hospital Foundation and is dedicated to its effort in revolutionizing the health of women. She is also a past Board Member at Covenant House, a founding activator of SheEO, and she currently sits on the Board of a number of organizations including #MoveTheDial, and Artscape.

By paving the way for other women and heralding their accomplishments as she goes, Colleen is ensuring the future for women in business in Canada is successful and sustainable.
